Model Code of Conduct

The Working Group on Responsible Conduct has developed a model Code of Conduct for use by councils and boards. The purpose of the resource is to provide a set of principles and general standards that support the development or updating of a Code of Conduct. A companion guide has also been prepared to provide additional guidance and resources. Read more

Excellence in Local Government

Local governments in British Columbia are served and supported by a host of independent organizations. Together, these groups have developed a new resource, Excellence in Local Government, which describes the mandate and service delivery for each. The hope is that this summary will fill a niche in the information currently available on the system for local government in BC, and will aid the orientation of newly elected officials and staff.
